

June 8, 2006

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to recommend Leatrice Latts as a highly successful and helpful business consultant. My CPA firm engaged Lea to work with members of our firm to restore harmonious relationships and enhance communication among our partners and staff. At the time she was engaged, there were (1) Open hostilities among members of the firm; (2) Communication problems; (3) General feelings of anger, mistrust, and unhappiness; and (4) Questions about personal growth, retirement and career objectives.

Over a period of a few months, Lea met with members of the firm both individually and in small groups. She facilitated discussion among partners and educated firm members about positive conditions for a successful working environment. At the end of that time, three partners of the Firm chose to leave and left under very amicable circumstances. They have continued an on-going working relationship with the Firm in the capacity of outside consultants.

The remaining members of the Firm agree that (1) the result was the best possible solution for both the Firm and the former partners; and (2) the process itself was smooth, amicable, and free of disruptions and hostilities.

The remaining members of the Firm feel much more positive about their future. They are able to communicate and work together much better they have for a number of years.

I recommend highly the services of Lea and the theories of See Movement.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Jim Schaefer, CPA
Managing
Partner